

Bolivian Minister Proposes to Establish an Intelligence Agency to Shield the State

La Paz, Mar 2 (RHC)-- Bolivia's Presidency Minister Juan Ramon Quintana has proposed to set up an intelligence agency to protect the state and clearly identify the attacks from the opposition in alliance with foreign enemies.

Minister Quintana said the government of Bolivia lacks state-run intelligence to face the campaigns against President Evo Morales and the process of changes, although there is the capacity to defend the country from direct aggressions.

<https://www.radiohc.cu/en/noticias/internacionales/85971-bolivian-minister-proposes-to-establish-an-intelligence-agency-to-shield-the-state>

Radio Habana Cuba