

Austrian Court Orders Rerun of Election After Right-Wing Candidate Was Narrowly Defeated

Vienna, July 2 (RHC)-- In Austria, the highest court has ordered a rerun of the presidential election, after the far-right candidate Norbert Hofer was narrowly defeated by former Green Party leader Alexander Van der Bellen.

Hofer, who won 49.7 percent of the vote, ran on an anti-migrant platform and would have become the first far-right head of state elected in Europe since 1945.

The high court ruling in Austria opens up the possibility he may seize power in the new round of elections.

<https://www.radiohc.cu/en/noticias/internacionales/98872-austrian-court-orders-rerun-of-election-after-right-wing-candidate-was-narrowly-defeated>

Radio Habana Cuba