

Donald Trump Defends his Anti-Semitic Tweet

Washington, July 8 (RHC)-- In news from the U.S. presidential campaign trail, presumptive Republican presidential nominee Donald Trump has defended his decision to tweet an anti-Semitic image, which showed Hillary Clinton, a pile of $100 bills, and a six-pointed Star of David, along with the words "Most Corrupt Candidate Ever!"

The image originally appeared on a white supremacist message board. Trump later deleted the tweet and re-tweeted the same image, but with the Star of David replaced by a circle.

Speaking at a campaign event in Cincinnati, Ohio, Trump said he wished his team had never deleted the first tweet. He insisted that it was "just a star" and then claimed it "looked like a Sheriff's star."
