

President of Iran to Visit Cuba

Havana, September 17 (RHC)-- President of the Islamic Republic of Iran Hassan Rouhani will begin an official visit to Cuba on Sunday evening.

Rouhani will travel to Havana from Venezuela, where he currently is attending the 17th Summit of Heads of State and Government of the Non-Aligned Movement (NAM). At the summit, taking place on Margarita Island, the Iranian president handed over the rotating presidency of NAM –the world's second largest grouping after the United Nations- to Venezuelan President Nicolás Maduro.

During his stay in Cuba, the Iranian leader will hold talks with his Cuban counterpart, President Raúl Castro.
