Moscow, August 22 (RHC/TASS)-- Russia's largest carmaker, Avtovaz, has said it will supply 300 cars for taxi service in Cuba before the end of this year.

The company's chief executive Nicolas Maure told reporters in Moscow that the delivery has been tentatively scheduled for November.

Cuba is said to import annually some 3,000 cars, a significant number of which are used in the fast-growing tourism industry.

The last time that Avtovaz delivered cars to Cuba was 12 years ago.
