

Norway May Divest $35 Billion from Fossil Fuel Holdings

Oslo, November 18 (RHC)-- In climate news, the fossil fuel divestment movement got a major boost this week when the Norwegian government announced it is considering selling off $35 billion in oil and gas stocks.

Norway would become by far the largest country to join the divestment movement. Norway's $1 trillion sovereign wealth fund controls about 1.5 percent of all global stocks.

<https://www.radiohc.cu/index.php/en/noticias/internacionales/147760-norway-may-divest-35-billion-from-fossil-fuel-holdings>

Radio Habana Cuba