

Donald Trump Now Claims 2005 Access Hollywood Tape Is Fake

Washington, November 29 (RHC)-- U.S. President Donald Trump is now attempting to claim that the infamous 2005 Access Hollywood tape in which he brags about sexually assaulting women is fake.

The video recording, in which he brags about how easy it is to do anything with women when you're a star -- including grabbing them by the genitals -- surfaced during last year's presidential campaign. At the time, the Republican presidential candidate did not dispute the tape's authenticity but instead said his words were what he called "locker room talk."

But now, Trump is claiming the tape is fake. Access Hollywood host Natalie Morales, responding to the news reports about Trump's claims, said: "According to The New York Times, President Trump told two people that the Access Hollywood bus tape, the one where he bragged about grabbing women by the you-know-what, is fake. Let us make this perfectly clear -- the tape is very real."

<https://www.radiohc.cu/index.php/en/noticias/internacionales/148860-donald-trump-now-claims-2005-access-hollywood-tape-is-fake>

Radio Habana Cuba