

Political cartoonist Rob Rogers fired after making fun of Donald Trump

Pittsburgh, June 20 (RHC)-- In the United States, longtime political cartoonist Rob Rogers has been fired from his job at the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette after 25 years, in what he says was a response to his critical cartoons about President Donald Trump.

Among his recent sketches that his editors refused to publish was one that depicted a caution sign with a silhouette of Trump snatching a small refugee child, as well as a Memorial Day cartoon in which Trump is laying a wreath in front of a gravestone for "truth," "honor" and "rule of law."

<https://www.radiohc.cu/index.php/en/noticias/internacionales/165094-political-cartoonist-rob-rogers-fired-after-making-fun-of-donald-trump>

Radio Habana Cuba