

Republicans strip racist congressional representative of committee seats

Washington, January 16 (RHC)-- In the U.S., House Republican leaders have voted unanimously to block Iowa Congressman Steve King from serving on any committees amid the outrage following his comments in a recent New York Times interview.

King praised white supremacy, saying: "White nationalist, white supremacist, Western civilization -- how did that language become offensive?"

Meanwhile, House Democrats are preparing their own actions, including resolutions to censure King over the comments.

<https://www.radiohc.cu/index.php/en/noticias/internacionales/181184-republicans-strip-racist-congressional-representative-of-committee-seats>

Radio Habana Cuba