

International Security to Be Focus of Russian Conference in May

Khujand, Tajikistán, April 2 (PL- RHC), -- Russian Defense Minister, Sergei Shoigu, said today that the next International Conference on Security, to be held in Moscow, will favor discussion of regional and global views on the field.

The Russian capital will host the meeting in May on an agenda including the situation in the Middle East, Northern Africa and Afghanistan, said Shoigu in the session of the Council of Defense Ministers of the Collective Security Treaty Organization.

Organized by Russia's Defense Ministry, the conference includes political and military issues, explained Shoigu.

"I would like to thank those who have expressed their readiness to travel to Moscow. He hope their participation will constitute a serious contribution to the solution of global security issues," he said.
