

Díaz-Canel meets with Lord David Triesman, co-president of the Cuba Initiative

Havana, June 18 (RHC)—Cuban president Miguel Díaz-Canel Bermúdez met on Tuesday with Lord David Triesman, co-president of the Cuba Initiative, who is heading a delegation of businessmen from the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland visiting the island.

According to Granma newspaper, the meeting confirmed the good status of bilateral economic relations and Cuba's commitment to continue strengthening its relations with the Initiative.

Lord Triesman was accompanied by Antony Stokes, UK ambassador in Havana, and Chris Bennett, coordinator of the Cuba Initiative.

Participants in the meeting also included Rodrigo Malmierca Díaz, Minister of Foreign Trade and Foreign Investment, and Marcelino Medina, Acting Minister of Foreign Affairs.

The visit materializes the relaunching of the Cuba Initiative, in correspondence with the will expressed by both parties during President Díaz-Canel's visit to London, in November 2018.

The Cuba Initiative is a bilateral mechanism to promote economic, commercial and social relations between Cuba and the United Kingdom.
