

U.S. pulls out of third Iraqi base, but still leaves troops deployed in Iraq

Baghdad, March 30 (RHC)-- In Iraq, U.S. coalition forces withdrew Sunday from a third base as the military continues to consolidate its troops following attacks earlier this month.

The K1 military base is the site of a December rocket attack that killed an American contractor and triggered a series of retaliatory attacks between U.S. forces and Iranian-backed militias, and the Trump-ordered assassination of Iran's top military commander, Qassem Soleimani.
