

Protesters in Philadelphia and New Jersey demand release of nonviolent and immigrant prisoners

Philadelphia, March 31 (RHC)-- In the U.S. city of Philadelphia, at least 100 protesters shut down traffic and parked their cars in the middle of city streets surrounding City Hall and other government buildings to demand the city release nonviolent prisoners and immigrant prisoners in light of the coronavirus crisis.

In New Jersey, families with loved ones imprisoned at the Bergen County Jail held a demonstration outside the jail to demand Governor Phil Murphy free all immigrants in detention.

<https://www.radiohc.cu/index.php/en/noticias/internacionales/218370-protesters-in-philadelphia-and-new-jersey-demand-release-of-nonviolent-and-immigrant-prisoners>

Radio Habana Cuba