

UnitedHealth Group profits soar as coronavirus kills more

Minnetonka, April 18 (RHC)-- The for-profit health insurance giant UnitedHealth Group reported profits grew by over $160 million during the first quarter of 2020, as demand for nonessential medical treatment plummeted while coronavirus hospitalizations surged. UnitedHealth reported a 3.4% year-over-year increase in quarterly earnings to $5 billion.

Former health insurance executive Wendell Potter tweeted in response: "The earnings were so good, the company said it still expects to make as much in total profits this year as they predicted in December ... when no one could predict the massive loss of life & jobs caused by the coronavirus. In other words, they're thriving during a pandemic."

UnitedHealth Group is based in Minnetonka, Minnesota, offering health care products and insurance services. It is the largest healthcare company in the world by revenue, with 2019 revenue of $242.2 billion.
