

Protesters demand ICE empty jails as COVID-19 continues to spread

New York, May 30 (RHC)-- In immigration news, advocates across the United States are continuing demands to release all people from Immigration and Customs Enforcement jails as confirmed coronavirus cases inside facilities in the U.S. near 1,400.

Immigrant rights advocates led protests outside immigration jails in California and Washington state this week. In Burlington, Massachusetts, advocates replaced the ICE flag at the agency's Boston Field Office with a new flag that read "ICE Kills. Free Them All." Another national day of action took place on Friday.
