

ABBA's Bjorn speaks out in support of Black Lives Matter protests

Stockholm, June 9 (RHC)-- "The world is full of idiots," said ABBA's Bjorn Ulvaeus, as he condemned critics of the Black Lives Matter movement and voiced his support of the worldwide protests against racism and police brutality.

"The solidarity that we see in the streets of the cities around the world now should give us hope," the musician said in a phone-recorded video given to Reuters.

The musician condemned those without "the imagination or will to put themselves in the place of a coloured woman or man," adding that he believes such people to be in the minority.
