Next September 28, Cuba and China will celebrate the 60th anniversary of the establishment of relations, which are in good health and are developing at the highest level.

Proof of this is the recent talks between Cuban Foreign Minister Bruno Rodríguez and Chinese State Councilor and Foreign Minister Wang Yi, in which they discussed cooperation in the battle against COVID-19.

During the telephone conversation, they also referred to the support of the Asian giant for the island in the face of U.S. aggressions and the program of joint activities to commemorate 60 years of diplomatic ties.
