

Europe's biggest holiday company cancels all trips to mainland Spain

London, July 26 (RHC)-- TUI, Europe's biggest holiday company, said on Sunday it had decided to cancel all holidays to mainland Spain up to and including Sunday August 9th in updated advice after Britain imposed a quarantine on those returning from the country.

"TUI UK have taken the decision to cancel all holidays to mainland Spain up to and including Sunday 9th August 2020," it said in a statement.

"We know how much our customers look forward to their holiday abroad and some will be able to accommodate the new quarantine restrictions. Therefore, all those that wish to travel to the Balearic Islands and Canary Islands will be able to travel as planned from Monday July 27th."
