

U.S. COVID deaths drop in February but still way too high

New York, February 19 (RHC)-- In the United States, more than 2,500 people died of COVID-19 on Thursday, with another 70,000 new cases recorded. The official U.S. death toll is on pace to top a half of a million before the end of the month.

The Washington Post reports that, on average, one person died of COVID-19 every 28 seconds in January. President Joe Biden toured Pfizer's COVID-19 vaccine manufacturing plant in Michigan on Friday to continue his push for a proposed $1.9 trillion coronavirus relief package.

<https://www.radiohc.cu/index.php/en/noticias/internacionales/248266-us-covid-deaths-drop-in-february-but-still-way-too-high>

Radio Habana Cuba