Havana, May 30 (RHC) This Sunday, young people from Cienfuegos province in Central Cuba participated in a regatta against the economic, financial, and commercial blockade imposed by the United States on Cuba.

Tourist boats, boats from the province's Fishing Federation, INDER canoes, water bicycles, and kayaks joined together in Jagua Bay to denounce the damage caused by the hostile policy against our country.

For approximately thirty minutes, the southern bay was the regatta scene, organized by the Union of Young Communists (UJC) and other organizations, institutions, and agencies of the territory, confirmed Yariel Cobo

Calvo, first secretary of the UJC in Cienfuegos.

In the vicinity of the Malecon of Cienfuegos, young motorcyclists, members of the "Moto100" project accompanied the initiative at the end of the day.
