

19th ALBA-TCP Summit: Latin American integration consolidated 200 years after the victory of Carabobo

Image not found or type unknown

Havana, June 24 (RHC)-- The 19th Summit of the Bolivarian Alliance for the Peoples of Our America-People's Trade Agreement (ALBA-TCP) will occur this Thursday in Caracas, Venezuela, with the participation of heads of state and government of the member countries and other representatives.

The Heads of State and Government meeting coincides with the 200th anniversary of the victory of the Battle of Carabobo, led by the Liberator Simón Bolívar, which has served as a guide and example for Latin American unity and integration.

Bruno Rodríguez Parrilla, a member of the Political Bureau of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of Cuba and Minister of Foreign Affairs, heads the Cuban delegation to the important event.

The summit's schedule includes exchanges on the regional situation and the current challenges of the international scenario, marked by the effects of the COVID-19 pandemic.

<https://www.radiohc.cu/index.php/en/noticias/nacionales/261785-19th-alba-tcp-summit-latin-american-integration-consolidated-200-years-after-the-victory-of-carabobo>

Radio Habana Cuba