Havana, Aug 11 (RHC)-- Cuba continues under a fierce campaign from social media networks with destabilizing purposes, including calls for economic plotting and violence, national television denounced.

According to the source, calls for violent mobilizations –promoted on digital platforms from the United States and Cuba- seek to subvert order and break citizen peace amid the complex situation the island is experiencing due to the Covid-19 pandemic.

The television report revealed an audio message from an individual living in the United States who recommended blocking access to the José Martí International Airport and its runway using polyethylene tubes.

This Telegram user offered to serve as an 'intelligence' tool also for future 'economic guerrilla' actions for supposed 'army operating within Cuba' against the Government.

The calls on social media include public disorder to provoke police response, denunciation of police abuse, accusing law enforcement agencies of arbitrary arrests, 'fabricate' disappeared people, focus on alleged violations of legality by law enforcement, denounce mock trials, and the application of extreme sentences.
