

Ivory Coast records first case of Ebola in 25 years

Image not found or type unknown

Ivory Coast has recorded its first case of Ebola in 25 years, according to local reports.

Abidjan, August 16 (RHC)-- Ivory Coast has recorded its first case of Ebola in 25 years, according to local reports.

Officials are tracking recent contacts of the patient, an 18-year-old woman from neighboring Guinea, who is being treated in intensive care.

In June, Guinea declared the end of a four-month Ebola outbreak that killed 12 people. This comes as West Africa is experiencing a surge of COVID-19 cases, and just days after Guinea confirmed its first deadly case of Marburg disease — a highly virulent disease similar to Ebola.

<https://www.radiohc.cu/index.php/en/noticias/internacionales/267172-ivory-coast-records-first-case-of-ebola-in-25-years>

Radio Habana Cuba