

Water protectors shut down Enbridge Line 5 Pipeline in Michigan

Image not found or type unknown

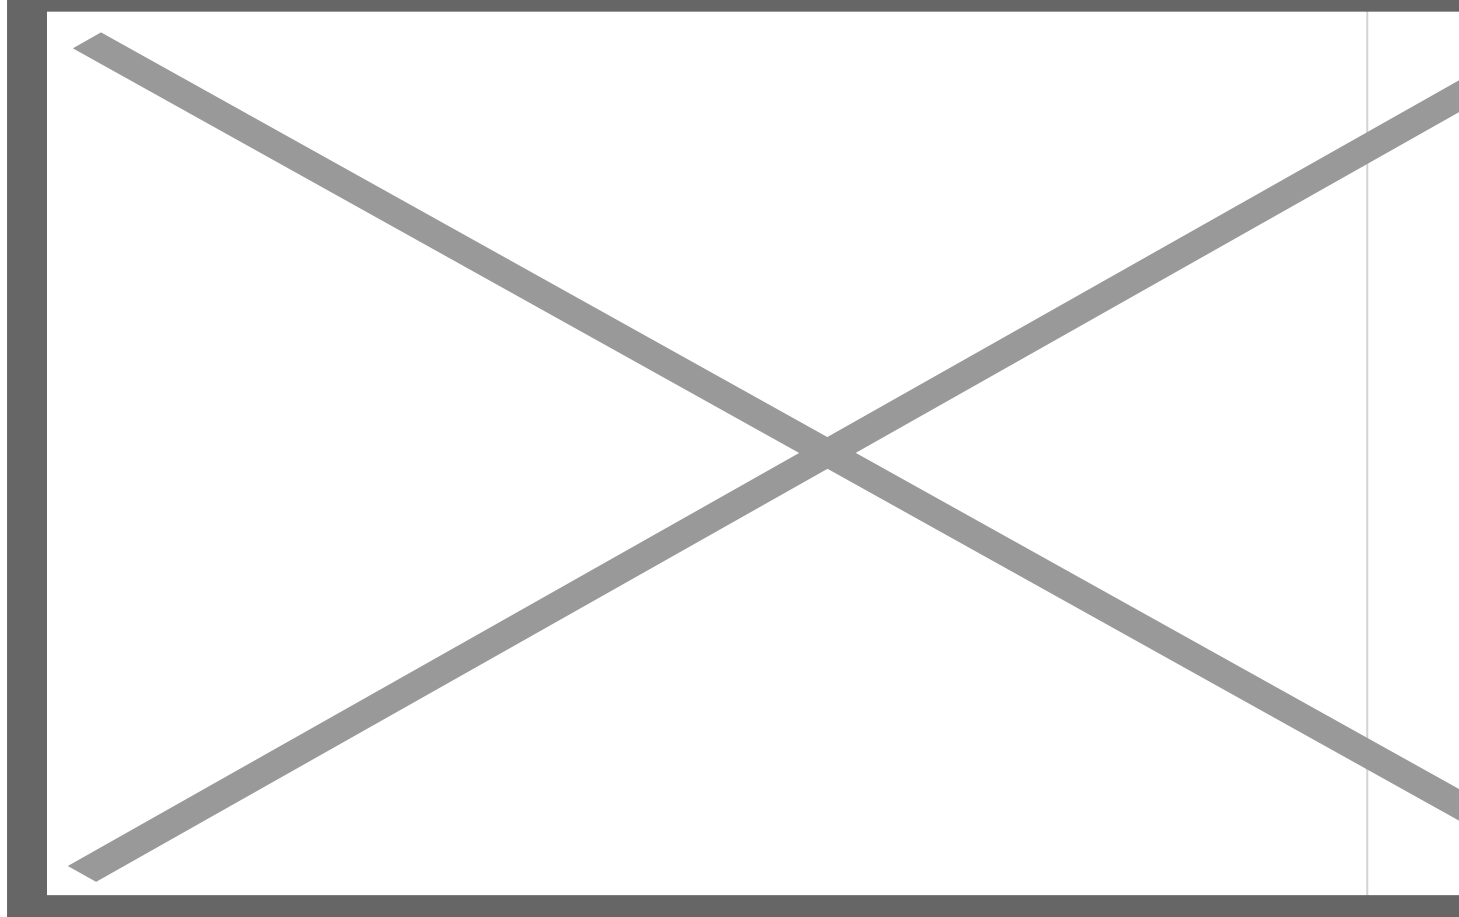

Image Credit: Facebook: Up Hell's Creek Camp

Lansing, October 20 (RHC)-- In the U.S. state of Michigan, activists took peaceful direct action to shut down Enbridge's Line 5 pipeline.

In May, Governor Gretchen Whitmer ordered Enbridge to shut down the tar sands oil pipeline, calling it a "ticking time bomb," but they continued to operate, threatening the fragile waterway of the Straits of Mackinac and sovereign Indigenous lands.

One of the organizers of the protest told reporters: “Enbridge violates the public trust every second that Line 5 continues to operate. Enbridge repeatedly and knowingly violated the terms of the 1953 easement and failed to correct structural shortcomings in the Line 5 pipeline. Furthermore, Line 5 has already spilled 33 different times, totaling over 1.1 million gallons of oil.”

<https://www.radiohc.cu/index.php/en/noticias/internacionales/274471-water-protectors-shut-down-enbridge-line-5-pipeline-in-michigan>

Radio Habana Cuba