

Rittenhouse trial judge says the word victims cannot be used to describe victims of fatal shooting

Image not found or type unknown

Image Credit: Twitter: @BGOnTheScene

Kenosha, October 28 (RHC)-- In Kenosha, Wisconsin, the judge overseeing the murder trial of Kyle Rittenhouse has ruled the three protesters shot by the white teenager during racial justice protests last year cannot be labeled "victims" during the trial but can be called "rioters," "looters" or "arsonists," if the defense can provide evidence to justify such terms.

Two of the protesters, Anthony M. Huber and Joseph Rosenbaum, were victims killed by Rittenhouse. The trial will get underway on Monday, November 1st.

<https://www.radiohc.cu/index.php/en/noticias/internacionales/275308-rittenhouse-trial-judge-says-the-word-victims-cannot-be-used-to-describe-victims-of-fatal-shooting>

Radio Habana Cuba