

Attacks in Mogadishu kill at least five people

Image not found or type unknown

In Somalia, at least five people are dead, including two children, after al-Shabab fighters attacked several police stations and security checkpoints in the capital Mogadishu.

Mogadishu, February 17 (RHC)-- In Somalia, at least five people are dead, including two children, after al-Shabab fighters attacked several police stations and security checkpoints in the capital Mogadishu.

This comes as the United Nations is warning severe drought in Somalia is pushing nearly half of all children under the age of five into acute malnutrition this year.

Hundreds of thousands need lifesaving treatment, according to the U.N., which called for urgent action to prevent catastrophic famine.

<https://www.radiohc.cu/index.php/en/noticias/internacionales/286508-attacks-in-mogadishu-kill-at-least-five-people>

Radio Habana Cuba