

Londoners hold climate protest as temperatures approach 40° Celsius

London, July 19 (RHC)-- In London, doctors and nurses with Extinction Rebellion placed stickers on the windows of JPMorgan's offices reading: "In case of medical climate emergency, break glass." The activists then carefully broke the glass panes in an act of nonviolent civil disobedience.

In a statement, nurse Maggie Fay, who took part in the action, said: "The world is heating because of our use of fossil fuels and JP Morgan is funding this climate catastrophe. My code of conduct states that I must 'Act without delay if [I] believe that there is a risk to patient safety or public protection.' That danger is here and it is now.”
