

Texas officer found not guilty for killing Pamela Turner

Image not found or type unknown

Baytown, Texas, police officer was acquitted in the 2019 fatal shooting of Pamela Turner.

Houston, October 14 (RHC)-- A Baytown, Texas, police officer was acquitted in the 2019 fatal shooting of Pamela Turner.

Juan Delacruz was on trial for aggravated assault for shooting Turner, a 44-year-old Black woman and grandmother, five times in an apartment complex while trying to arrest her in May 2019.

Pamela Turner's family says she was having a mental health crisis and that Delacruz knew Turner had been diagnosed with paranoid schizophrenia.

Turner and Delacruz lived in the same apartment complex, where Delacruz also served as a security guard.

<https://www.radiohc.cu/index.php/en/noticias/internacionales/301931-texas-officer-found-not-guilty-for-killing-pamela-turner>

Radio Habana Cuba