New York, December 16 (RHC)-- Twitter has disbanded its Trust and Safety Council, an external group made up of civil rights organizations, academics and others that advised Twitter on matters related to user safety, including mental health, human rights, suicide prevention and child sexual exploitation.

In another move, Twitter suspended the account of @ElonJet, which tracked the movements of Twitter owner Elon Musk's private jet. Musk previously vowed not to block the account.

He is the founder, CEO and chief engineer of SpaceX, angel investor, CEO and product architect of Tesla, Inc., owner and CEO of Twitter, Inc. and founder of The Boring Company. With an estimated net worth of around $164 billion, primarily due to beneficial ownership of 424 million shares of Tesla and a 44% interest in SpaceX, Musk is the second-wealthiest
