Havana, February 9 (RHC)-- The Fédération Internationale de Football Association revealed Thursday the three finalists for the FIFA The Best 2023 award.

The winners in women's soccer were Sonia Bompastor (Olympique Lyonnais), Pia Sundhage (Brazil national team) and Sarina Wiegman (England national team).

In men's football, Carlo Ancelotti (Real Madrid), Pep Guardiola (Manchester City) and Lionel Scaloni (Argentina national team) will compete for the award.

The last winners of this award were Germany's Thomas Tuchel and Britain's Emma Hayes, both at the helm of Chelsea.

The winners will collect the 2023 award on Monday, February 27, in Paris.

The names of the finalists for the Fédération Internationale de Football Association's The Best award in both categories, as well as the finalists for its Puskas Award, will be published this Friday.
