

Israeli Military Admits Over $2.5 Billion Spent for War on Gaza

Tel Aviv, September 3 (RHC)-- The Israeli regime says it has spent more than $2.5 billion for 50 days of bombardment against the besieged Gaza Strip. On Tuesday, Moshe Yaalon, the Israeli minister of military affairs, put the expenditure of the war on Gaza at “more than nine billion shekels.”

Over 6,000 places were attacked, including "more than 5,000 by the air force, about 900 from land and sea," he said referring to Tel Aviv's air, sea and ground attacks. The Israeli military minister said the interception of a Palestinian rocket by Israel's Iron Dome missile system costs Tel Aviv $100,000. And Yaalon said the amount spent for the Israeli war with high casualties among Palestinian children, women, and the elderly “was worth it.”

The Israeli war ended on August 26th by an Egyptian-brokered truce, which took effect after negotiations in Cairo. The deal stipulates the ease of Israel's seven-year-old blockade as well as the provision of a guarantee that Palestinian demands will be met.

Israeli warplanes and tanks started pounding the blockaded enclave in early July, inflicting heavy losses on the Palestinian land.

Almost 2,140 Palestinians, mostly civilians, including women, children and the elderly, were killed in 50 days of the Israeli onslaught on Gaza, while around 11,000 others were wounded. 69 Israelis were also killed in the conflict.
