

Panam Sports Channel: Official channel for Santiago 2023 Pan American Games

Havana, July 31 (JIT) - The streaming channel Panam Sports Channel will be the official channel of the Santiago 2023 Pan American Games, scheduled from October 20 to November 5.

Fans will be able to watch the actions through nine simultaneous live channels every day and totally free of charge.

More than 1,900 hours will be broadcast live on the Panam Sports Channel website, as well as on the free mobile and TV applications.

This initiative will bring the Pan American Games to more fans than ever before and expand the reach and audience of the continent's most important multi-sport event.

Millions of people will have the opportunity to witness the achievements of the best athletes in the Americas as they compete for gold medals and qualification for the Paris 2024 Olympic Games in 31 disciplines.

"When we launched Panam Sports Channel in 2019, our dream was to bring sports closer to fans than ever before. Now we are fulfilling that dream with the live broadcast of Santiago 2023 for free around the world. We are proud of Panam Sports Channel's growth over the past four years and we will continue our mission to broadcast more of the region's top sporting events to help drive the development of sport in the Americas," said Neven Ilic, head of Panam Sports.

In addition to the live channels, Panam Sports Channel will broadcast a daily live program with sports highlights, interviews with athletes and analysis of the best performances at the Games.

Complete coverage of this great sporting event will be provided by a talented team of 15 expert commentators and analysts from across the Americas.
