

U.S. students fear employer backlash for protesting in favor of Palestinians amid war in Gaza

Image not found or type unknown

Protesters gather outside the White House, with many fearing for their safety and security

Washington, November 3 (RHC)-- A climate of intolerance to dissent over the Israel-Hamas war has led many in the United States to worry about the consequences of making public any pro-Palestinian sentiment.

According to media reports, students wear masks at protests, worried that they will not be able to get a job once they graduate.

The fears haven't come out of nowhere; in several high-profile cases, people have lost their jobs for speaking out in support of Palestine and against Israel's bombing of Gaza.

<https://www.radiohc.cu/index.php/en/noticias/internacionales/338320-us-students-fear-employer-backlash-for-protesting-in-favor-of-palestinians-amid-war-in-gaza>

Radio Habana Cuba