Los Angeles, November 17 (RHC)-- The Los Angeles Times has become the first major U.S. newspaper to call for a ceasefire in Gaza.

On Thursday, the paper's editorial board wrote: "It has become impossible to distinguish between Israel's decidedly non-surgical operation against Hamas militants in Gaza and the indiscriminate killing of Palestinian civilians. When so-called humanitarian pauses in the bombardment and ground operations are too brief to realistically permit innocents to flee, or when there is no place for non-combatants to go that is not also in the line of fire, such pauses are so deficient as to be meaningless."
