

New York Times reveals Israel had Hamas battle plan more than a year ago

Image not found or type unknown

New York, December 1 (RHC)-- Israeli government officials knew Hamas was planning a large-scale attack on Israel more than a year ago, but failed to respond to specific warnings about the plot after dismissing it as “aspirational.”

That's according to an explosive report in The New York Times, which says Israeli officials intercepted a 40-page battle plan by Hamas detailing how its attack would play out — a blueprint Hamas closely followed on October 7th.

Meanwhile, another explosive new report by +972 Magazine details how Israel is using artificial intelligence to draw up targets in Gaza, and how Israel has loosened its constraints on attacks likely to kill civilians.

One former intelligence officer described the plan as a “mass assassination factory.”

<https://www.radiohc.cu/index.php/en/noticias/internacionales/340997-new-york-times-reveals-israel-had-hamas-battle-plan-more-than-a-year-ago>

Radio Habana Cuba