Havana, February 24 (RHC)-- With the signing of the Code of Ethics of the Cadres of the Cuban Revolution, the leaders of our country today ratified their commitment to the people and loyalty to the Homeland.

This Saturday morning, in solemn ceremonies held throughout the nation, the document was signed, which includes the 15 essential values that these public servants must assume, among them loyalty, honesty, altruism, humanism, solidarity, professionalism, collaboration and transparency.

The members of the Political Bureau, the Secretariat of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of Cuba, the Council of Ministers, the Council of State and the leaders of the mass organisations signed the Code at the headquarters of the Presidency of the Republic, headed by the Cuban leader, Miguel Díaz-Canel.

According to the official account of the Cuban Presidency on the social network X, the president recalled the words expressed by the leader of the Cuban Revolution, Raúl Castro, on the 65th anniversary of the revolutionary triumph, who called on the cadres "to meditate every day on what more can be done to justify the trust and exemplary support of our compatriots".

According to press reports, the Code of Ethics of the Cadres of the Cuban Revolution ratifies the priority given to strengthening the values that underpin the conduct and performance of the leadership in the construction of today's socialist society. (Source: Prensa Latina).
