

ACLU warns against University of Michigan censorship policy over Palestinian rights activism

Image not found or type unknown

Detroit, April 10 (RHC)-- The University of Michigan has come under fire over its proposed “Disruptive Activity Policy,” which was issued by University President Santa Ono after Palestinian rights activists interrupted a speech he was giving. The American Civil Liberties Union of Michigan warns the policy will have a chilling effect and likely lead to violations of the First Amendment.

Elsewhere, Vanderbilt University in Tennessee has expelled, suspended and issued disciplinary probations to a group of students who engaged in a sit-in protest demanding Vanderbilt divest from companies complicit in Israel's occupation and killing of Palestinians.

<https://www.radiohc.cu/index.php/en/noticias/internacionales/351786-aclu-warns-against-university-of-michigan-censorship-policy-over-palestinian-rights-activism>

Radio Habana Cuba