Washington, June 2 (RHC)-- The Joe Biden administration is reportedly planning to send groups of immigrants from Latin America to Greece and Italy as an effort to discourage more people from seeking refuge at the U.S.-Mexico border.

According to a report by CBS News, under the initiative, people who are first processed at U.S. immigration centers recently opened in Colombia, Costa Rica, Ecuador and Guatemala could be resettled in Greece or Italy.

The U.S. already has a similar resettlement partnership with Canada and Spain.
