Paris, June 13 (PL).- The French federations of various sports will present their candidates for flag bearers for the Paris Olympic and Paralympic Games, a responsibility with requirements that eliminate stellar athletes from the list.

The French National Olympic and Sports Committee will host the presentation, with names already known such as the discus throwing veteran Mélina Robert-Michon, participant in six games and with a silver medal in Rio de Janeiro-2016, the Olympic champion of volleyball in Tokyo Earvin N'Gapeth and award-winning swimmer Florent Manaudou.

Each federation had the possibility of selecting its two candidates, a man and a woman, although several did not do so, failing to comply with the strict conditions set.
