Madrid, July 1 (RHC)-- A prominent Spanish political activist has called for unity and fraternity in Bolivia, following last week's attempted military coup.

Manuel "Manu" Pineda Marín, a member of the United Left (Izquierda Unida), issued an appeal to Bolivian President Luis "Lucho" Arce and former President Evo Morales to come together and fight the common enemy.

"Comrades Lucho and Evo, the enemy is powerful, aggressive, criminal. There is no red line that they are not willing to cross."

They already did it in 2019, violently overthrowing Brother @evoespueblo.

... and perpetrating massacres such as those in Sacaba and Senkata.

Yesterday there was a new attempted military coup against brother @LuchoXBolivia.

"Fortunately, this time the people of #Bolivia were able to stop it. But let's not forget, the enemy is out there, lurking, seeking its moment. The unity of the leadership is necessary, ending divisions. Let's not make it easy for them."

Bolivian brothers and sisters, Unity against the enemy, Fraternity between brothers.

Jallalla Bolivia
