

New York City Airplane Cleaning Workers Strike over Unsafe Conditions

New York, October 11 (RHC)-- Workers who clean airplane cabins at New York City's La Guardia Airport have agreed to return to work following a strike over unsafe working conditions.

The workers, who are employed by a Delta Air Lines contractor, say they have been provided with inadequate protections against feces, vomit and other bodily fluids, a concern that has strengthened amidst fears of Ebola.

<https://www.radiohc.cu/index.php/en/noticias/internacionales/36166-new-york-city-airplane-cleaning-workers-strike-over-unsafe-conditions>

Radio Habana Cuba