Khan Younis, August 12 (RHC)-- Israel bombed the al-Tabiin school in the al-Daraj neighborhood east of Gaza City over the weekend, leaving more than one hundred people dead and many more injured. The genocidal crime has drawn global condemnation.

According to local media reports, the extent of the brutality of the attacks on al-Tabin School keeps unfolding with more horrific testimonies.

These are either from the medical staff at al-Ahli Arab Hospital (Baptist Hospital), who were treating the wounded and dealing with a huge influx of injuries arriving, or from the civil defense crews who were at the bombsite after receiving the news of the strikes.

There are stories of remaining family members still searching for their missing children in the attack, who somehow evaporated with no signs of them any more. These children could be the victims of bombs or explosive devices that completely evaporate human remains.

The medical staff also described injuries arriving at the hospital, and admitted right away to the operating theatre for surgeries, removing flesh and bones of other bodies.

Doctors say they had to remove other people's body parts shredded into pieces and stuck to these wounded people that needed to be operated.
