Matanzas, Aug 15 (RHC) The International Skydiving Center of Varadero, in the Cuban province of Matanzas, will host from August 20 to 25, the VII Latin American and III of Friendship Championship of precision skydiving with the presence of 27 foreign athletes and 20 Cubans.

René González, president of the Cuban Aviation Club (CAC), organizer together with the Latin American Parachuting Confederation (COLPAR Siglo XXI), said that representatives from Brazil, Chile, El Salvador, Montenegro, Russia and Cuba will participate.

Russia and Cuba will present two teams each. The hosts will also have a women's team of competitors and athletes from the Revolutionary Armed Forces.

“We have 27 foreign athletes and 20 Cuban athletes confirmed. The Cuban teams will come out of the National Championship that will take place from this Saturday until the 25th in the city of Baracoa,”

Gonzalez added.

Each team will be composed of five members. Cuba holds the Latin American record for group precision, established during the Latin American Championship held in Paseo Fundo, Brazil, on May 31, 2013.
