

ALBA-TCP supports Venezuelan Supreme Court decision on election results

Image not found or type unknown

Caracas, August 24 (RHC)-- The Bolivarian Alliance for the Peoples of Our America-People's Trade Treaty (ALBA-TCP) made clear, through an official statement, its support for the decision of the Supreme Court of Justice of Venezuela (TSJ) on the results of the recent presidential elections of July 28th.

The text underlines that “the member states of (ALBA-TCP) welcome the decision issued by the (TSJ) on the results of election day of July 28, 2024, in which President Nicolás Maduro Moros was re-elected for the next period 2025-2031.”

The statement also points out that it “applauds” the role played by the TSJ, the body that certified “the results issued by the National Electoral Council (CNE).”

The TSJ, ALBA notes, “has shown itself to be closely committed to the responsibility of giving peace and tranquility to the Venezuelan people.”

Along these lines, the Latin American bloc stresses that the decision of the highest Venezuelan judicial body “is an irrefutable example” of what the institutions of the South American country are like, which preserve sovereignty and self-determination, exercises that constitute rights of the people of that nation.

Finally, ALBA emphasized that it supports “the Venezuelan people and government” and “applauds the worthy example of sovereignty without interference of any kind,” celebrating at the same time the unquestionable victory of President Nicolás Maduro Moros.”

<https://www.radiohc.cu/index.php/en/noticias/internacionales/363603-alba-tcp-supports-venezuelan-supreme-court-decision-on-election-results>

Radio Habana Cuba