

John Ratcliffe, who defended Trump during impeachment hearings, nominated as CIA Director

Image not found or type unknown

Washington, November 14 (RHC)-- Donald Trump has nominated John Ratcliffe to lead the Central Intelligence Agency.

Ratcliffe is a former Texas Republican congressman and former federal prosecutor who served as director of national intelligence from 2020 until Trump left office in 2021.

John Ratcliffe was a member of Trump's impeachment advisory team in 2019 when he questioned witnesses during Trump's first impeachment hearings.

[SOURCE: DEMOCRACY NOW]

<https://www.radiohc.cu/index.php/en/noticias/internacionales/369707-john-ratcliffe-who-defended-trump-during-impeachment-hearings-nominated-as-cia-director>

Radio Habana Cuba