Beirut, December 3 (RHC)-- Hezbollah has launched an attack on an Israeli military site in the occupied Kfarchouba hills in response to the regime's repeated violations of the ceasefire agreement that was to bring an end to nearly 14 months of fighting between the two sides.

The Lebanese resistance movement said in a statement published on its Telegram channel on Monday that the strike on the Israeli army position in the Mount Dov area was an "initial warning defensive response," and cited "the continued violation of Lebanese airspace by hostile Israeli aircraft, all the way to the capital, Beirut."

The resistance group also criticized the "concerned authorities" for failing to stop Israeli attacks on Lebanese soil despite the ceasefire. Since the ceasefire went into effect last week, Israel has carried out more than 50 attacks on Lebanese territory, which have killed and wounded several people.

Lebanese authorities said earlier on Monday that two people were killed and an army soldier was wounded in fresh Israeli strikes on southern Lebanon.

On Sunday, Israeli jets launched an airstrike over the southern Lebanese village of Yaroun, while troops shelled other towns and villages close to the border with the occupied territories, Lebanon's official National News Agency reported.

Israel was forced to accept the ceasefire after suffering heavy losses following more than 14 months of fighting and failing to achieve its goals in its aggression on Lebanon. The truce agreement officially came into effect on November 27th.

Hezbollah opened a support front for Palestinians in Gaza only a day after the Israeli regime unleashed its genocidal campaign in the besieged territory in October 2023, launching numerous retaliatory attacks against Israeli targets in the occupied territories.

Following the truce announcement, the resistance movement warned it was fully ready to counter further potential Israeli aggression against Lebanon.
