

Climate activists spray-paint Darwin's grave in London to draw attention to climate disaster

Image not found or type unknown

Image Credit: Just Stop Oil

London, January 15 (RHC)-- In the U.K., two members of the direct action climate group Just Stop Oil were arrested after they spray-painted the words "1.5 is dead" on the grave of Charles Darwin at London's Westminster Abbey Monday.

The protest follows the news last week that 2024 was the hottest year in human history, with the average global temperature rising by 1.6 degrees Celsius above preindustrial levels.

One protest organizer, Alyson Lee, told reporters: "2024 was the hottest year on record. We have already passed through the 1.5 degree that was supposed to keep us safe. Millions are being displaced. California is on fire. And three-quarters of all wildlife has disappeared since the 1970s."

The activist later said she believed Charles Darwin would approve of their protest "because he would be following the science, and he would be as upset as us with the government for ignoring the science."

[SOURCE: DEMOCRACY NOW]

<https://www.radiohc.cu/index.php/en/noticias/internacionales/374139-climate-activists-spray-paint-darwins-grave-in-london-to-draw-attention-to-climate-disaster>

Radio Habana Cuba