

Cuba Considers 31 Business Projects with Mexico

Havana, November 4 (RHC) -- Cuba and Mexico expect to expand economic and trade relations as the island announced that Mexico has proposed 31 cooperation projects, which are under consideration by Cuban authorities.

During the inauguration Monday of the Mexican pavilion at Havana's International Trade Fair, First Deputy Foreign Trade and Investment Minister Antonio Carricarte called on business people to take advantage of the opportunities being offered by the island.

Meanwhile, the Mexican ambassador to Cuba, Juan Jose Bremer, stressed the favorable environment for Mexico and Cuba and praised the ongoing update of Cuba's economy.
