WASHINGTON, March 18 (Xinhua) -- Former U.S. Secretary of State Hillary Clinton is far ahead on the Democratic nomination in the 2016 presidential election and takes a lead against her Republican contenders, a new poll revealed on Wednesday.

The new CNN/ORC poll showed that 62 percent of the Democrats and Democratic-leaning independents give their nod to Clinton for their party's nomination. She is followed by Vice President Joe Biden, who has gained only 15 percent supporters.
