

Nigeria Marks One Year Since Girls' Kidnapping; Report Finds Over 2,000 Abductions by Boko Haram

Abuja, April 14 (RHC)-- Nigeria is marking the first anniversary of the kidnapping of more than 200 schoolgirls by the Boko Haram. On Monday, the "Bring Back Our Girls" campaign held a silent march in the capital Abuja.

In a new report, Amnesty International says the Boko Haram has kidnapped at least 2,000 women and girls since the beginning of 2014. Many have been forced into sexual slavery or taking part in violence.
